

When Things Go Round and Round

Author: Shweta Balakrishnan
Illustrator: Agantuk Samaresh
Translator: Rajesh Khar

Chintu is fascinated with things that go round and round – at home, in the farm, in the playground, at the flour mill and at the village fair.

When the fan in the house goes round and round, grandpa does not feel hot and reads his newspaper from morning till evening.

When the potter's wheel goes round and round, grandma makes beautiful pots and pans.

When the wheels on the tractor go round and round, daddy ploughs the soil in the farm.

When the pulley in the well goes round and round, mummy draws water.

When the windmill goes round and round, Manish mama grinds grains in the flour mill.

When the pinwheel goes round and round, Chintu and his friends sit and gaze at the wonderful colours.

When the ferris wheel in the village fair goes round and round, grandpa, grandma, daddy, mummy, Manish mama and Chintu go up and down.

At bedtime, Chintu told mummy and daddy "Today, my teacher taught me when the earth goes round and round, we have day and night."
